

VENICE BIENNALE

ALVARO SIZA HONOURED IN VENICE

On 29 August 2012, Álvaro Siza Viera was awarded the Golden Lion for Lifetime Achievement at the Venice Architecture Biennale. The biennale's director, David Chipperfield, paid a beautiful tribute to the career work of the Portuguese architect with these words: "Those of us fortunate enough to have heard him speak about architecture, using words as sparingly and as precise as the fine lines of his drawings, know that these works are not the product of a conventional talent but of a mind sophisticatedly exercised by the confidence of knowledge and the wisdom of doubt." Alvaro Siza received the 2011 UIA Gold Medal at the Tokyo UIA World Congress.

ECUADOR

BACK TO BASICS

The 18th edition of the Quito pan-American architecture biennial will take place on 19 - 23 November 2012, in the Ecuadorean capital on the theme Basics: necessary architecture, necessary cities (Bàsica : La arquitectura necesaria- la ciudad necesaria). Seminars will examine these ideas in order to draw the contours of an architectural and urban conception founded on basic values such as equality, tolerance, sustainability, insertion, identity, and community.

An exhibition entitled Live the Present will be presented by two curators, both specialists in the pan-American context: Ms. Zaida Muxí and Josep María Montaner. The biennial is organised by the Pichincha College of Architects.

POLAND

BEST POLISH ARCHITECTURE OF THE 21st CENTURY

Architektura-murator magazine announces a national competition entitled Life and Architecture, that aims to find and spotlight the best projects realised in Poland between 2000 and 2012. This initiative to promote architecture on the national level is placed under the high patronage of the President of the Republic, Bronislaw Komorowski, and supported by the executive board of the Polish Architects Union (SARP).

SARP president and UIA Council member Jerzy Grochulski will participate in a prestigious jury to select the twelve most exemplary projects; and an online vote by the general public will designate the people's favourite building. The deadline for submitting realisations is 30 September 2012.

ARGENTINA

IDENTITY IN DIVERSITY

Argentina's contribution strives to be collective and federating. It brings together governmental, cultural and professional authorities in a common creative movement.

Clorindo Testa is curator for the exhibition. The vast space that makes up the Argentinian pavilion houses an historic panorama of different architectural influences, notably French and Italian, iconic constructions that issued from rationalism and prestigious recent realisations that evoke diversity, integration, memory and sovereignty.

CANADA

MIGRATING LANDSCAPES

Large numbers of people are migrating all over our planet, and issues related to migration are becoming ever more pertinent. Despite increasing mobility, numerous countries tend to close their borders to emigrants, in contrast to Canada, that has long been a generous exception to this trend.

5468796 Architecture + Jae-Sung Chon are the curators for the Migrating landscapes exhibition. They invited young Canadian architects to create videos and models based on their emigration experiences. The installation is a wooden landscape whose maleable nature illustrates how emigrants to Canada are not forced to assimilate but invited to express their own identity. Migrating landscapes and Common ground are themes that evoke questions and answers related to socio-political borders, the migration of people and ideas, attitudes and behaviour taught by others.

CYPRUS

REVISIT CYPRUS - CUSTOMISING TOURISM

With the goal of revisiting tourism in Cyprus through a shared architectural reading by both tourists and the local population, the Cypriot presentation uses images to narrate architecture and transmit new concepts in tourism. Streams of images flow through different scenarios, giving varied interpretations to the transformation of place. Spectators follow the evolution of these scenarios in an environment space that simulates a typical beach holiday.

HONG KONG

GHOST WRITING THE FUTURE OF CITIES

This exhibition co-organised by the Hong Kong Institute of Architects and the Hong Kong Development Council for the Arts, is curated by Christopher Law. Thirteen contributions from various cultural horizons: arts, music, architecture and design give free reign to speculation on the past and future of the Kowloon-East district. The goal is to open a multidisciplinary dialogue that will result in a lively social and cultural ambiance that guarantees the diversity and balance of this 320 hectare area that represents the last major opportunity for urban regeneration in Hong Kong.

GREECE

MADE IN ATHENS

The Greek contribution presents Athenian urban planning according to two themes. The first looks at local urban traditions and how the 'polykatoiki' housing complexes have evolved from the 1950s to today, as well as the process of creating an urban landscape through the repetition of basic units. The second theme examines fragmentation and the distinctive conflicts in Athenian public spaces: their degradation, tentatives to re-use central zones and renovation projects supported by alternative networks and initiatives by activists.

IRELAND

SHIFTING GROUND

The Irish contribution, in the Artiglierie section of the Arsenal, is entitled Shifting Ground. Elizabeth Francis and John McLaughlin, curators, explore works by the Irish studio Heneghen Peng Architects with special emphasis on their projects for the Great Egyptian Museum in Cairo and the visitor's centre at the Giant's Causeway. Both projects were selected through international architecture competitions organised under the auspices of the UIA, which Heneghen Peng won respectively in 2003 and 2005. The exhibition examines how these young architects conquered the international scene. It was developed through an initiative by Culture Ireland and the Arts Council of Ireland, with support of the Arts Heritage and Gaeltacht department, the Royal Institute of the Architects of Ireland, and Arup.

KOSOVO

THE FILIGREE MAKER

Kosovo is inaugurating its presence at the biennale with a pavilion entitled The Filigree Maker, and Përparim Rama is the curator. The space invites the public to share their emotional reactions to the built environment. It asks a series of questions about the Kosovo landscape and architecture, past and present; about the cultural identity of this country and its people following many waves of influence and today as construction sites are popping up all over the place. The exhibition reveals perceptions the local population and visitors feel when they visit a city or edifice: joy, distress, fear, confinement, liberty, insecurity.

LUXEMBOURG

POST-CITY

Post-City attempts to magnify the already existing strong points of Luxembourg's built environment in order to tackle the larger-scale issues the country is - and will be - facing, as well as its relationship with the development of the 21st century city in general. It examines the territory through a sensitive analysis, an attitude towards the city more than an urban proposal. Based on an assumed subjective approach, Post-City works as a zoom-out process exploring five specific connected environments of contemporary Luxembourg: Belval, Berchem, Ingeldorf, Kirchberg and Schengen. An extremely pragmatic infrastructure and an accumulation of existing and fictional built situations, Post-City acts as a visual concentration of urban realities and potentials; It is a romantic approach with an almost totalitarian consequence, or, how the contemplation of a local case leads us to a complete urban tale.

POLAND

MAKING THE WALLS QUAKE...

The Polish contribution, designed by Katarzyna Krakowiak is a sculpture, it is architecture of sounds that creates, transmits, and distorts sound waves. A space that associates close sounds, reflects and transforms them into an auditory flow orchestrated by the pavilion itself, its walls and its arches "as if they were dilating with the secret knowledge of great powers."

INTERMEDIATE
CITIES CIMESUIA CIMES AT THE WORLD URBAN FORUM

This UIA work programme, in conjunction with the UNESCO UIA-CIMES Chair, presented its base plan at the World Urban Forum in Naples, on 5 September 2012. The base plan document lays out the best urban planning principles and criteria for sustainable development and strategic planning adapted to intermediate cities. This methodology, elaborated by the UIA work programme and the UNESCO Chair, was evaluated and adjusted according to studies carried out in 86 intermediate cities around the world, then submitted to the Master's workshop DUT-UPC at the Catalonia Polytechnic University in Barcelona for analysis. Josep Llop Torné, director of the CIMES work programme, presented the contribution at the WUF on the theme: Intermediae cities, strategic base plan, urban extensions and dimensions.
